..... Editor. THE EVENING STAR has a regular and permanent circulation in Washington three times larger than that of any other paper in theeltv. As a local NEWS paper and Advertising Medium it hasne competitor.

The dedication of the Grand Army Place amid the scenes and under the circumstances of the occasion have been impressive beyond anything that has occurred in the reunions since the great review at the close of the war. The mind of the veteran, sweeping over the intermediate time, is saddened by the nation's losses in the midst of its gains by the removal from the scene of their triumphs of so many of the heroes of the conflict. But If the figures of Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Meade, Hancock and others of the army and the figures of the naval heroes of the great war for the Union are missing from the reunion there is the comforting certainty that they appear in full splendor in the pages of history. They are merely leading the way as they used to do in the days that tried men's souls. And one of the purposes of the present reunion, a purpose it is hoped which will be successfully carried out, is the erection of appropriste monuments to each and all of these great sons of the republic. Standing in the shadow of Washington's monumental shaft, in sight of the spot sacred to the repose of so many thousands of the bravest men who ever lifted an arm in defense of human rights, well may the old soldiers of the United States recall the oaths of the past to be true in memory and deed to the cause of the Union and the cause of American progress.

For the next three or four days the pedestrian-male and female-will practically pos sess the streets; they will do so because in many places the sidewalks are ordinarily too narrow, in other cases because a large proportion of the common footway has been unlaw fully and improperly appropriated by the builders of seats from which the parade is to be seen by those who have the currency wherewith to satisfy the builders aforementioned. In view of these conditions-natural and unnatural-it is not unreasonable to ask carriageowning and carriage-operating citizens to drive as little as possible on the main thoroughfares, wide though those thoroughfares be, until the great multitude has taken its departure. Drivers who must or will drive during this week may lighten their responsibility in case of collision by moving with more deliberation than usual, especially at street crossings. The thoughtful man, however, needs no advice on

Tomorrow is the day of the great parade. It is also the day, or one of the days, on which thousands of Washingtonians are accustomed to purchase provisions at the Center Market. After 9:30 a. m. it will not be possible for any one not provided with the badge of authority to cross Pennsylvania avenue at any point between the Capitol and Washington Circle. It therefore behooves housekeepers who reside north of the avenue to arise early and complete their marketing trip before the time mentioned. Belated ones will have their choice of returning home by an uncomfortably circuitous route or of being arrested and locked up for attempting to run the blockade.

The Chicago papers insist on the burning of garbage, some of them by householders who may be prepared for it, and others by city crematories. Incineration is a perfect mode when due preparations for it have been made. The objection has been raised to burning refuse in the kitchen range that it is offensive to neighbors. It is, however, no more so than the garbage can and its delivery to the garbage cart. The offensiveness in the one case is evidence of sanitation, in the other of insanitary might be established in all cities, combining private with public cremation, under a judicious system, involving comparatively small expense and greater certitude of health, as well as con-

The great variety and number of features of FLANAGAN'S the grand encompment hardly diminish the importance to the veterans and their auxiliaries of the choice of the commander-in-chief and the president of the Woman's Relief Corps. To Washington the first named event is magnified by the candidacy of a prominent Washing-tonian who, at the last encampment, gracefully yielded his claims to the office in order to secure the honor of entertaining the encampment to the capital of the republic. From the circle of those named for these positions a suitable choice cannot fail to be made.

The grand parade of tomerrow will be the crowning review of the encampment, so far as street spectacles are concerned. The scene is not likely ever to be surpassed in the present generation. The city and the occasion will have met as they will never meet again while the veterans of the Union survive in such num-

Congressman Watson is alleged to have suffered great loss of popularity in Georgia. It is feared that he has been making unguarded

The Leading House In Its Line In The City

As you well know, every large city has Its leading Ladies' Cost, Cloak and Suit house. We occupy the position of leaders in our line here. We have won upon our merit by carrying not only the largest stock, but the most fashionable, stylish and perfect-fitting Jackets, Coate, Cloaks, Capes and Suits to be found in this or any city. Our garments are practically custom-made and equal the productions of the most celebrated tailors. The styles are American modifications of the extreme European creations.

We cordially invite the strangers now within our gates to visit the store and, if they be ladies, to inspect the Fall and Winter "Novelties" in Coats, Cloaks, Wraps, Capes and Suite, which have been secured thus early in the season expressly for your benefit.

The elevator will take you from floor to floor, and upon each floor you will find easy chairs, waiting rooms and other-In addition to Costs, Closks and

CRAIG & HARDING.

A New Furniture Firm.

After working night and day for a week we are now ready for business. We have been doing a great deal more business from the first day we commenced than we really had time to attend to, but now, for the first time, we can take a long breath and feel that we can offer our customers the conveniences and attention of a well-ordered store. We believed that you would patronize a firm who would do business in accordance with straight business precepts, and the last few days have shown that belief to be a reality. Neither reputation nor a fence is strength ened by whitewash, and we never indulge in it. Everything is what it appears to be-sometimes more-but never less. We wish all to bear in mind this principal feature of price"-marked in plain figures-and from which price there will be no deviation what ever. It will not be a question of how much an article will bring, but how low we can afford to sell it. We have an elegant stock of fine Draperies and handsome Furniture-and will be glad to show you through the store,
